2008 Year in Review

Tallahassee Regional Airport (TLH) continuously strives to improve its facilities and services to meet the future aviation needs of the community. Tallahassee Regional Airport has made many improvements during 2008 and accomplishments have been many. Listed here are a few of the highlights for this year's review.

Daktronics Display Information

The new state-of-the-art computer based display system is a great Terminal enhancement. It is located above the entrance of the Center Concourse. The Daktronics is a versatile system which allows the ability to incorporate video elements and create advertisements and custom-designed banners for the traveling customer.

Cooling Tower Replacement

Two new cooling towers were installed to service the Ivan Munroe Terminal Building. The new units are designed to improve the efficiency of the existing HVAC system. The compressors, a major component of the system, were replaced in 2007. The former units were 19 years old and had experienced unacceptable rise in maintenance costs.
